VOLUNTEER

We offer a variety of opportunities for volunteering throughout the year. If you are interested in being put on our volunteer email list, please visit our website's volunteer section. Volunteers will assist with donation pick-up, sorting, restocking shelves, and moving items when working with us.

You are a Green Terp

All students attending the University of Maryland show they are Green Terps by reducing their waste through donating or volunteering with Terp to Terp Campus ReUse Store. Thanks for helping to create a more sustainable world!

WHAT WE DO

We manage the collection and recirculation of donated unused or gently used small appliances, cooking/kitchen items, room accessories, clothing, school supplies, and more from our over 20 donation sites across the UMD campus. Our team sorts and organizes the donations into our Terp to Terp Campus ReUse Store storefront at Harford Hall Service Center for UMD students to shop for FREE. We collaborate with the UMD Campus Pantry as well as any students groups or campus offices looking to get involved with waste prevention.

DONATING

Students can drop off items they want to donate directly in their residence hall collection bins near their service desk. Those who do not have access to the residence halls can drop off donations during business hours at our Annapolis Hall location or the UMD Campus Pantry. Monetary donations accepted at giving.umd.edu, search for Terp to Terp Campus ReUse Store Fund.

EDUCATION

“According to research, the average college student produces 640 pounds of waste per year they are enrolled in university, including furniture, decor, and temporarily used items.”

In addition to our essential goods recirculation efforts we provide waste reduction education to the UMD community through our social media (@TerptoTerp), event collaborations, and outreach tabling.

If you're interested in collaborating with Terp to Terp for an event or need ideas for educational materials, email us.
